

No Voice Unheard, No Right Ignored - a consultation for people with learning disabilities, autism and mental health conditions

A chance to get involved

What is this meeting about?

The Government has been working over the past few years to improve the lives of people with mental health needs, learning disability and autism. The vision is that everybody should be treated with dignity and respect by health and care services.

Although things are starting to improve for some people this is not always the case and for some people admitted to Assessment and Treatment Units they are still not always given the same rights as everyone else.

The Government has some ideas of how they can work to improve this and are asking questions about how to make people's lives better.

Inclusion North are holding this meeting in partnership with the Yorkshire & Humber Families Network. They want to give you the chance to think about the ideas the government has. We will send the ideas and feedback to the government after the meeting.

What will happen on the day?

At this workshop you will be able to:

- Find out more about the No voice unheard, no right ignored consultation
- Have a chance to think about and talk about the ideas in the paper from the Government
- Find out how you can contribute to the ideas that the Government has

Who is the meeting for?

This consultation event is for family members. People with Learning Disabilities will be welcome too but we know there are other meetings being organised just for self advocates.

The date and time of the workshop is:

Wednesday 13th May 2015

10.00am until 3.00pm

Where will the meeting take place?

The meeting will take place in Leeds at a City Centre venue.

We will let people have more information when they have booked in.
